MISS EDITH WILLIAMS.

MISS EDITH WILLIAMS.

"Yes, father is a reformed man," she said, "and our friends think it a miracie that I cured him without his knowledge or consent. I had read hew Mrs. Kate Lynch of 329 Ellis St., San Francisco, Cel., and cured her husband by using a remedy secretly in his coffee and food and I wrote to Dr. Haines for a trial. When it came I put some in father's coffee and food and watched him closely, but he couldn't tell the difference, so I kept it up.

"One morning father got up and said he was hungry. This was a good sign, as he rarely ate much breakfast. He went away and when he came home at noon perfectly sober I was almost frantle with foy, as I hadn't seen him sober for half a day before in over fourteen years. After dinner, he said down in the big easy chalr and said. Edith, I don't know what has come over me, but I hate the sight and smell of liquor and am going to stop drinking forever.' This was too much for me and I told him then what I had done. Well, we both had a good cry, and now we have the happiest home and the kindest father you can imagine. I sm so giad you will publish this experience, for it will reach many others and let them know about that wonderful Golden Specific."

WEEK'S RECORD IN REAL ESTATE,

Indications of a Growing Speculative Demand for All Kinds of Property.

AMENDMENT.

Representative Lightholder Pre pares for Jefferson City-Took Refuge in a Real Estate Office - November Business,

Thanksgiving week brought November to a close and ushered in December to the accompaniment of a somewhat uncertain business in real estate. There can be no denying that the demand for vacant property, good houses and investment flats is stendily growing, and that a speculative feeling is beginning to manifest itself. Most of the agents have large transactions in hand, but the number of these that have been actually closed is provokingly small. It is believed that as the World's Fair work develops and each decisive preliminary is satisfactorily completed, the specu-lative demand for all classes of property will also increase. A boom is neither ex-pected nor wanted, but the healthy impetus that is sure to be given to the real estate market is keenly looked forward to. Fisher & Co. make a capital showing in their report to-day, while Howard Gam-brill & Co., Henry Hiemenz, Jr., the Nicholls-Ritter Co. and others tell of satisfac-

Among the agents generally much gratification was expressed at the renewed acfication was expressed at the renewed ac-tivity of the World's Fair Committee, which gives assurance of the early completion of the 5,000,000 subscription fund. Several prominent agents are adding their personal efforts to this end, and reality men have been enthusiastic callers at the new head-quarters in the Carlton building.

Amendment Number Three.

The special committee appointed by the Real Estate Exchange to consider this matter has been actively at work and has reported to the Board of Directors at three different meetings held during the week. The effect of the amendment, the question of testing its legality and that of neutralizing its injurious operation as regards real estate loans, have been thoroughly discussed, but nothing has been made public thus far.

In the meantime John G. Grether of the real estate firm of John Grether & Co., claims to have solved the difficulty. His plan contemplates a set of 2 per cent interest notes, due annually, and allowed days of grace to about December 29, also a clause whereby the mortgagee agrees not to pay before December 29 of any year the tax assessment against him under the third amendment, under penalty of forfeiture of the 2 per cent interest. The mortgager may at his option pay said tax to the credit of the mortgagee, and have the 2 per cent notes cancelled upon presentation of the receipts. In case there should be no assessment under the third amendment, the 2 per cent rotes are to be cancelled as they fall due. This form will be copyrighted by Mr. Grether. It is stated to have been favorably reported on by Judge George W. Lubke, ex-United States District Altorney Clepton, Campbell Cummings and other legal lights.

Found & Refuge.

A bright litle girl about 6 years old wan-dered into the Mercantile Trust Company's office yesterday about noon. She was cry-ing bitterly and had lost her way, but was ing bitterly and had lost her way, but was not able to give much of an acount of herself. Her name, she said, between sobs, was Vita Klippenberg, her mether was sick and her father had sent her out with a nickel to buy cookies. She still held the nickel in her clenched hand. She had, apparently, not the remotest idea as to where she lived or how she had reached the office of the trust company. Vice President Anderson promptly took charge of the child, and, seated in the real estate department by the side of a lady typewriter, Vita soon began to recover her composure. Mr. Anderson notified the Folico Department, and early in the afternoon the tot was restored to her anxious father and mother.

Representative Lightholder. Secretary W. P. Lightholder of the Real Estate Exchange made a flying trip to Jef-ferson City during the week, Mr. Lightholdferson City during the week. Mr. Lightholder is Representative elect from the Sixth District of St. Louis, and his purpose in visiting the State capital was to engage suitable headquarters.

Mr. Lightholder is a Democrat, but his Mr. Lightholder is a Democrat, but his election to the Legislature was halled with delight even by those opposed to him in politics. As a business man of high standing and character, his services in the Statecouncils are expected to be of great value. He will be the special champion and spokesman of the real estate interests of Missouri. Several important measures affecting this interest will come before the Lerislature, and President Macbeth of the exchange will leave no stone unturned to secure their

The Fall of Brooklyn Bridge.

The greatest bridge in the world-Brooklyn Bridge is being weakened by electrolysis. Its four great cables are great live wires through four great cables are givent live wires through which wildent currents are constantly flow-line. These currents are escaping to the ground through the anchorages, which they are eating away at an estimated rate of nine tons a year. The conclusion decided is that the electrolytic effect must be evercome at care of the bridge may some day fall fine the river, or show ruch agas of weakness that it may have to be closed. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Fittsburg. Pa., Dec. 1.—Protty Mary Kobath, a Slavish girl, has only been in America a week, yet in that time she has become engaged to one man, filted him, and is ready to be married to another. She has also have the cause of her two lovers lighting a pitched battle that resulted in each entering suit against the other.

Mary arrived in Homestead last week and at once took up her residence among hami. The wedding day was set, and every-thing went along smoothly. John purchased a wedding troussean for his promised bride at an onthay of 500, and took it home and laid it away until the day set for the wedding, which was resterday.
On Thursday the couple came to the city and procured a license, and then went and and procursed a license, and then went and engaged a priest to perform the marriage corenous. That night the fickle Mary met Save Novok, who is much better looking than her promised husband. She accepted the newcomer's attention, and it did not take him long to convince her that she would do much better by marrying him. So Sotok was thrown over, and Mary and Novok set Monday for their wedding day. Novok did not have much money, and told Mary he could not afford to purchase an experiency wedding outlit for her. The young woman, with an eye to business, suggested that he might buy the trousseau from Sotok at a borgain, as the latter would now have no use for it. Acting upon this suggestion, Novok called 1 on his rival and offered him $3) for the drawes in his possession. There was a stormy scene between the two men, but Stock did not allow his augry passion to get the better of his judgment, and he accepted the offer. Novek paid over the $33 and departed, saying he would call for the charter of his property of the color. and departed, saying he would call for the clothen later on. But when Novek returned Sotok said that his feedings had been in-jured by being filted, and that $50 extra would have to be paid for the trousseau. Sotok persisted in asking for his balance and refused to return the $50, and a fight

Novek then went before Justice of the Peace G. W. Giles and made information against Sotek, charging him with receiving money under false pretense. Constable Frank Bell arrested Sotek, and he in turn of against Sotek and he in turn had Novok arrested on a charge of as-sault and battery. Both men furnished ball and will be given a henring at the ti Novok and Mary had set to get married.
